

Pie, aaaaaah squared!

At the next Farmers' Market on Saturday, 4th February the theme will be Bramley Apple Week. As a part of the fun, Zoe is organising an apple pie baking competition. You are invited to celebrate by baking your favourite cake, pie or tart using Bramley Apples.

Bring your entry along on Saturday 4th February and the entries will be judged for their delicious taste and appearance by Cllr Robert Bliss, Chair of Sandgate Parish Council. Robert is a great supporter of our market and comes along every time - and our stall holders suggested that he would make a great judge of local culinary expertise!

There will be lots of delicious produce on sale made from apples including pork and apple sausages, apple preserves as well as pies and tarts and of course Bramley Apples!

And of course all your favourite stalls will be there.

Open Gardens Day 2012

Following the success of the 2010 Open Gardens Day, Sue Cowell is once again organising this year's bi-annual event. It will take place on Sunday 1st July and if you would like your garden to be included please email me by 31st March at:

david@sandgatecommunitytrust.co.uk

In 2010 we had a wide range of gardens from the highly cultivated to the smallest, handkerchief size plot but all were well received by visitors as they showed what could be done and many were inspired. Once again all proceeds will go to a local charity.

More details will be available soon and we would like to make this year an all day event.

Chich News and Chich News extra are compiled and edited by David Cowell who is totally responsible for content (even the excruciating heading of the pie competition article above). david@davidcowell.net/020 3239 5828